MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY OF THE DAY.

To Sheep-farmers and the Public in general.

F. C. Calvert's Phenyline & Terebene Sheep Salve

The great reputation these specifics have enjoyed in England on account of their extraordinary success in all cases where they have been applied, has induced the proprietor to introduce them in this market on account of the immense sheep farming interest of the country. To enable sheep-farmers to obviate in future the enormous losses they sustain yearly, not only in the deterioration of the Sheep, but also, as frequently happens, the loss of the animal itself. It is a powerful antiseptic, and he only asks a fair trial, feeling confident of the result. The following is a list of some of the uses to which these antiseptics may be applied—

In Horses—Canker in the feet, grease, quittor, all cangrenous wounds or ulcers, cracked heels, mange, &c.

Cows; distemper, and Fall diseases of the hoofs.

For wounds or bruises resulting from accident and for all general Veterinary purposes these remedies are sure. Phenyline is found to be remarkably successful in the Hospitals in England for curing Cancer. Terebine is also used for preserving hides, skins and bones from all vermin and insects, the parcels already cured with it in this city and Australia have merited the approval of purchasers in England who report them to be perfectly sound and sweet. The leather made from the hides is also declared to be superior in every respect.

ANOTHER BANK PROJECT.

On the known globe there is not such a country for projects as Buenos Ayres: like mushrooms in the estancias they spring up unnoticed, but unluckily cannot be turned to such advantage. To recapitulate for our readers all the new projects at present under consideration would require a winding sheet like the Tribuna. We give up the task in despair, and only point out to our friends the few which are of vital interest to our readers. The latest novelty in the project line has been that of the Bank, which question revolving like a tee-totum, has at last fallen with 284 marked upwards. The subjugation of the Chaco, the annexation of the Banda Oriental, the extermination of Urquiza, are all matters of trifling importance compared with the regulation of the currency. This knotty subject, which up to the present has baffled the genius of us all, is, as some visionaries think, happily about to be settled.

The Legislature by fixing the value of the gold ounce at 284, has tacitly admitted that the bank has sequestrated from our pockets the nett sum of $268 paper dollars for each doubloon. Anxious however to support an institution which enjoys the soubriquet of "defender of the institutions," we have purposely omitted to call public attention to this gigantic sweep.

Impatient for the adjustment of the currency question, we have preserved the greatest silence in order that the Romero regenerator might be the better able to work out his plausible reforms. We are startled however by the fact that the land auction project of Romero has been withdrawn, and an insidious attempt to joint stock bamboozle the public been attempted.

Lamentable indeed is our monetary condition, and frightful our financial degradation when the patching up of our banking system is left to the clerk of a minister, or the Juez de paz of a country town.

A project for the emission of 50 dollar bank shares has been laid before the camara as the panacea of all our paper-dollar woes. This scheme bears the signature of Messrs. Varela, Romero, Moreno, Muniz, and Vivot. Destitute of every guard against Government intervention, bereft of every semblance of guarantee against ministerial influence, these gentlemen have the courage to come before the public with a project more characteristic of [illegible] than the forum. We should refrain from calling attention to such a mere moonshine project, but the [illegible] that it has succeeded in [illegible] a scheme which up to the [illegible] only safe and [illegible] [illegible] trouble [illegible]

That our readers may better judge of the monstrous absurdity of the present project, we translate it, but hope they will excuse us if in our honest indignation we bestow upon it its proper appellation:—

Bamboozling Project

Art. 1. The Bank of the Province shall (as it cannot with any show of justice print more paper dollars) emit five millions of silver dollars in shares of the value of 50 patacones each.

Art. 2. (In order to induce people to buy these shares) These shares shall enjoy one per cent, per annum more interest than deposits, and shall be redeemed by the lottery system, out of the profits of the Bank, and also the funds which shall henceforth be paid in for burning purposes (suspicious!)

Art. 3. On the 1st January each year the interest and instalments shall be paid (provided we have no revolutions).

Art. 4. The Bank will always advance paper dollars on its shares being hypothecated. Very kind indeed

Art. 5. The one-third of the Bank Directory shall be appointed by the (supposed) shareholders (Quere—who appoints the remaining two thirds of the directory?) provided that the capital subscribed shall amount to one million. This shows a doubt as to how much of the stock will be subscribed for.

Art. 6. The amount realised from the sales of shares shall be destined (not for the redemption of the paper money but) for the increasing of the capital of the bank, for the preservation of the paper money.

Art 7 (The millenium). The redemption of the paper money shall take place gradually, and shall begin when the profits or capital of the bank amounts to 8 millions fuertes [i. e., A.D. 2863].

Art. 8. The new paper dollars of the bank, for the bank should change the present paper money, should always preserve the name of "pesos moneda corriente" expressing however always the condition that they shall be paid in metal [what kind?—tin probably, the most appropriate] to bearer on presentation.

Art. 9. When this bank shall be possessed of a specie capital equivalent to the paper currency (i. e., A.D. 2863) it shall redeem its new paper money, and [observe the absurdity] the bank shall cease to be a bank of emission: then, and not till then, shall such banks be free in this province, being always subject to the laws in such case made and provided.

Art. 10. Communicate this to the Governor. Signed,

Varela, Romero. Muniz, Moreno and Vivot.

AMENDMENT.

We however propose two amendments to this law in two articles as follows:—

Article 11. No government, minister, newspaper editor or country judge shall henceforth be permitted to interfere with the financial affairs of the country, and no emissions of paper dollars from this day forward, for any cause whatever be regarded else than forgeries, and as such shall be punished.

Art. 12. The redemption of the paper money shall begin from this day forward as follows:—

1st No torn or obliterated notes shall be passed.

2d The monthly burnings shall be religiously observed.

3d All fines paid into the Policia shall be handed over to the bank to be burned.

If these amendments be passed, we vote for the adoption of the Bamboozling project: if not we hope the members of the legislature will have the courage to throw it under the table.

REPUBLICAN SECRETS.

Self-government is rather flattering to human vanity, and hence young nations, like young people, usually regard it as the perfection of felicity and wisdom combined. Yet the experience of time shews that a man can often govern others better than himself, and in the political world we see the anomaly of a State like France, which carries its arms triumphant over neighboring countries, present a sorry picture when endeavouring to realize republican independence. In truth, the people is a bad statesman, a tyrannical master, a corrupt voter, a capricious judge, and an insane corporation. Where every man has equal weight in the national councils, there must be an immense preponderance of folly, unless we suppose (an absurdity) that wise men are more numerous than blockheads—there must be wide-spread venality, unless patriots are the general rule, and speculators the exception—there must be universal ignorance, unless every youth of 20 years, is either a philosopher or a student—there must be unbridled insolence, unless humility is inculcated by the Constitution—there must be the license of [illegible]

But it is beside our task to assail institutions which at least aim at perfection, although the wisdom of 20 centuries has exploded the idea of their feasibility in Europe. We live in a Republic, and must make the best of it.

Now the spirit of Republicanism is to give every citizen the greatest amount of Liberty, that his stomach can safely digest. Yet it is notorious in Buenos Ayres, and much more so in the Interior, that party signifies power, and it is as dangerous for a man of independent feelings to hold an opinion, as to have arms without a license, in time of civil war. Nay more, a youth, like Shakespeare's Romeo, enamored of the red cap goddess, must abjure his name, if his father were a Montague, and the Capulets sit in the Government House. It may require time to blend the streams of faction into the grand current of patriotic nationality; but surely half-an-hour or the stroke of a pen would suffice to abolish the Star-Chamber of our Policia, whose summary arrests and secret administration are a cancerous disease, eating away the very essence and vitality of civil freedom and self-government.

Again the sovereign people may be compared to a mercantile firm, whose manager is the President, with his subordinate clerks. How irresistibly ludicrous for the book-keeper to refuse shewing the accounts, either on the pretext of want of time, or that he wished, tender mortal, not to harrow our feelings. Yet here is the sovereign people of La Plata, living for months in blissful ignorance of the state of its Debit and Credit account, simply because Minister Sarsfield has not posted up the books to public view. True, his masters have not called on him, such is their entire faith in his integrity; but he was formerly in the habit of giving a monthly return, pro et contra, and we were at times amused by the regularity with which General Paunero drew on the Treasury, for money to support his legions, in hunting Indians or Chachos. The public purse has been, of late, freely opened, to satisfy the exigencies of commercial and industrial progress, and grumblers asserted that we were going beyond our means. On the contrary, we believe that every dollar expended in subsidies, means of transit, and guarantees for the introduction of foreign capital and colonists will yield one hundred fold.

Moreover we have now to pay larger revenues, and no one can complain of taxation, when the rents are laid out to advance the country, when neither a royal family nor costly executive absorbs the public money, in fine, when the people is assured that its clerks are managing the business for the good of the firm. Nevertheless we should, we repeat, like to see the book-keeper publish his accounts monthly, for if he invest so large an amount as 600,000 $ silver in putting up a receiving office, he may imitate the man who spent his fortune in buying purses, leaving himself, in the end, nothing to put in them. It is only by looking over our National accounts at short intervals, that we shall learn how we stand, and as we pay willingly all demands, there can be no objection to let us know what it's for.

THE "WHITE" CLAIM.

Few of our readers know the history of this long-neglected obligation, which should have been esteemed among the sacred legacies of Independence, and has been suffered by ungrateful administrations to lie over, half-a-century unacknowledged:

Mr. White was an American citizen resident in this city at the beginning of the present century. His wealth and position were only equalled by his patriotic desire to aid the country in casting off the shackles of Spanish domination, and he threw himself, heart and soul, into the struggle. In 1814, Montevideo was in the hands of the Spaniards, the safety of Buenos Ayres was menaced; the patriots, therefore, resolved to make a grand blow for the extermination of foreign power, and a combined attack by sea and land was projected.

The valiant Admiral Brown offered his services, but a fleet was indispensable, and the exchequer was so exhausted that no means could be found to equip even a small schooner. In this emergency Mr White fitted out a complete naval armament at his own expense, and the result, under our countryman's management, was the capture of Montevideo and defeat of the Spanish fleet. The thanks of the nation were equally shared by the Admiral and Mr. White, and the latter received in satisfaction of his outlay a mortgage on the Custom-house of Buenos Ayres.

The convulsions of civil war frustrated alike the honest intentions of the Government and the hopes of the patriotic American for reimbursement. Years rolled on, without a dollar being paid him, and the once wealthy [illegible] found himself reduced [illegible] with a large family growing up unprovided for. Expectation [illegible] heavily on the poor [illegible] stricken in years, who could nothing [illegible] over 300,000 dollars silver, for his adopted country, and could not even like rigid Cincinnatus nobly retire to a small farm for his own little support. The founder of Argentine independence died crazy, a fate which befel other distinguished foreign champions of the same cause.

Some 20 years or upwards after the creation of the White claim, Government ordered an inquiry [illegible] amount, and the high [illegible] appointed, reported a sum approximately 120,000 $ silver, [illegible] no interest. But nothing further was done. Mr. White's children were inheritors of an empty claim, and the repeated efforts of successive American ministers only served to show the vanity of all expectations for a just arrangement, and the seeming resolve of Argentine statesmen to ignore their benefactors.

At length the United States accredited a representative to this capital, who, either from personal abilities or owing to political circumstances, has gained great influence with our present enlightened administration. Mr. Kirk soon turned his attention to the just claims of the Atkins and White families, which he pressed on the Argentine Government with a [illegible] of his calling, and [illegible]. The legal adviser attempted to resist his intervention on the grounds that the claimants are Argentine citizens, but President Mitre, regarding such plea a subterfuge, inclined for the payment of these just debts, irrespective of the nationality, creed, or color of the recipients. The question then arose as to whether the White claim, assessed in $350,000, should be paid in silver or paper, [illegible] dollars [illegible] when the debt was contracted, it was plain that paying it now in [illegible] be giving only [illegible] of the amount really due, putting interest out of the question. [illegible] voted in silver, in 6 per cent. National Bonds, which are worth at [illegible] £50,000]. This tardy reparation will bring comfort and affluence to the heirs of that worthy American citizen, who was [illegible] of our independence. We have to congratulate them on such good fortune, and to thank the Hon. Mr. Kirk and President Mitre on this tribute of justice, the noblest trait of [illegible] a legislator.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The fete Napoleon [illegible] passed off rather quietly this year. Some 23 Frenchmen assembled in the French Legation at a dinner party given by the Minister [illegible] none of the [illegible] of this country were present [illegible] regard as the height of bad taste, however [illegible] unworthy of so great [illegible] which M. Lefevre Bécourt [illegible]. It is an extraordinary fact [illegible] unfortunate some of the European powers [illegible] in the selection of ministers and agents to represent them in these countries. Some of these gentlemen seem, by their conduct, to think that by snubbing the authorities of the land we live in, they will promote more effectually the interests of their fellow-countrymen; but this lamentable ignorance is only attempted in countries where the disparity of wealth, strength, and population is so great, that a reciprocity of insult is out of the question. On a previous occasion, and when most directly interested, we expressed our views on this matter—views in which we are happy to say almost every respectable resident foreigner concurs.

Whilst talking of ministers, we may observe how successful has been Mr. Kirk, the American Minister [illegible] in bringing to such a happy conclusion the [illegible] claim of White: [illegible] silver dollars is the amount which the Argentine Government has agreed to pay in 6 p. c. bonds. Comparisons are always odious, but we must say that probably if the present Minister's predecessors had been as discreet and judicious as Mr. Kirk, [illegible] White would have [illegible] long since paid [illegible].

The rain seems determined not to come. Notwithstanding that all [illegible] [illegible] season. The Minister of the Interior should look to it at once, and see that the cotton growing districts of the Republic are well supplied.

We notice the arrival of several young men who have come out with the intention of investing their capitals in the [illegible]. Some half-dozen landed within the last week, whose aggregate capital exceed one millions of paper dollars. We welcome these strangers amongst us, but caution them against too hurried an investment; far better to place their money in bank and rough it a little in the camp than to buy a flock of sheep right off, without first having obtained a little insight into the business.

The German who was said to have been murdered in the café is, we are happy to say alive, and with every prospect of recovery.

Lucia di Lammermoor is the opera advertised for to-night; it is one of the most favourite operas in England, and we hope to see a full house.

In Gualeguaychu there was quite a row the other day. Some fellows who were leaving to join Flores commenced shooting. The Chief sent down orders to have the ringleaders arrested, but before the soldiers arrived the would-be regenerators had set off for Fray Bentos.

Dr. Gibbing's letter has been a regular silencer upon the editors of the Nacional. Monday evening's edition was anxiously looked for, to see what the legal editors would say, but as no answer appeared, we suppose all Dr. [illegible]'s assertions about calumny, falsehood, &c., must be regarded as the effervescence of an inexperienced co-editor.

To-morrow night there will be a concert for the benefit of the infant pianist, Ermenegildo Liguori, admission 50$. The Operatic Company will lend their professional services, and the repertoire comprises some very pretty pieces.

The annual meeting of the British Library takes place to-morrow evening. Please don't forget to attend.

The printers at our office have been not only surprised but alarmed at the stupendous edifice which is being erected on the top of the Standard office. Many of our subscribers, knowing our anxiety to accommodate our friends, believed at first that it was a reading room we were establishing for our camp friends, others that it was a shooting gallery for the purpose of keeping one's hand in, but they were slightly mistaken; not however in their estimate of our accommodating dispositions, but, in the object of the new edifice: we have conceived the idea that as cartes de visite are at present all the rage, the most convenient thing possible would be a photographic concern on the premises, so that all our subscribers can have their likenesses taken in the Standard office. [illegible] Cazon, we hear, thinks it a most outrageous innovation on our part, but we can't help [illegible] must go ahead.

IRELAND

Dublin, July 1

Yesterday will be long remembered by the peasantry of the county of Wicklow. Since the old times, when the O'Byrnes and the O'Tooles were pressed into their mountain fastnesses to punish their incursions in the county of Dublin, which sometimes extended to the city walls, there has been no such invasion of their county by the citizens of Dublin. Nearly 100 vehicles of various kinds were seen stretching for a mile along the narrow road, now creeping slowly up a steep hill, now passing rapidly along the vale, through beautifully wooded glens, or on the naked upland, towards the village of Roundwood, the principal seat of the Dublin Waterworks. The occasion which called forth so many visitors to this wild region, was the turning of the River Vartry from its old bed to the new channel which is to conduct it to Dublin for the supply of the city with pure water. This ceremony was performed by the Lord Lieutenant. The party started by the Wicklow Railway, in a special train at 11 o'clock and reached Bray in about half an hour. There carriages and jaunting cars were waiting to convey them to the works, about 12 English miles further on. The people of Bray turned out to gaze at the novel spectacle, and loudly cheered Lord Carlisle as he passed in an open carriage, accompanied by the Lord Mayor of Dublin, Mr. M'Cormick, M.P., the contractor of the Vartry Works, Mr. Hatchell, his private secretary, [illegible], Captain Campbell, Aide-de-Camp, the Hon. James Butler, [illegible] of the Diamonds, between the two Sugar Loaves, and on through the picturesque Glen of the Downs, to Newtownmountkennedy, where it turned sharply to the right and faced the mountains. Ascending Calla hill, glorious views of the sea and of the coast scenery were obtained. A few miles brought the party to the mouth of the tunnel, which extends under a hill for two and a-half miles. This great work was inspected by Lord Carlisle. As the tunnel is made through the rock, no pipes will be required for the conveyance of the water. The procession then advanced up a steep ascent to the [illegible] Moor, the catchment on which the vast reservoir is being constructed. It will cover an area of 409 acres, and will be capable of pouring into the metropolis 12,000,000 gallons daily. At length the River Vartry was reached. At this season the stream is manageable, and it was easy by means of little floodgates, which had been all put in readiness for the ceremony, to divert it from the old rocky channel through which it had worn its way since the Green Isle was formed, to the new one which Mr Neville, the engineer of the works, had prepared for it. Nothing could be more appropriate or dramatic than the manner in which this was done by the Lord Lieutenant, amid the cheers of the multitude that thronged round him. Before this part of the ceremonial was performed, there was an address from the Corporation presented to his Excellency. It was read by Dr Gray, chairman of the Waterworks Committee. The Lord Lieutenant replied in the following terms:—

"I have to thank the Waterworks Committee of the Municipal Council of the city of Dublin alike for a friendly address, a picturesque expedition, and a very interesting and imposing ceremony. I well remember the inauguration of this great undertaking, and I cordially join with you in rejoicing that it should have advanced thus far smoothly and prosperously on its progress towards completion [applause.] I almost feel that you invest me with a power to which neither my imagination nor my ambition ever soared, when you call upon me to divert the crystal waters from the course they have probably followed since these purple Wicklow hills emerged from the earth's crust, and to make them flow in a new and virgin channel [applause.] I well know that this marvel has been achieved by high engineering genius and by the scarcely less necessary cooperation of hardy and honest industry (hear, hear.) I fervently echo your prayer that the results of this spirited enterprise may fully accomplish all the purposes which have inspired its conception and progress. If in a neighbouring valley the eye of genius could see in the social pleasures which were gathered round the meeting of the waters a magic more exquisite than their own, so here we consecrate the parting of the waters to a still higher mission—to promote the health, comfort, and civilisation of countless families [applause.] Ladies and gentlemen, I have a very few words to add on this occasion. I wish to give a practical proof of the value I attach to the undertaking by making a special recognition in the only way open to me of the indefatigable zeal, the ability, and the fitness of the chairman of the Waterworks Committee throughout the whole course of the undertaking."

The address was presented in front of a marquee. The sun shone brilliantly on the scene, which was enlivened by the presence of many ladies, and the music of a fine band. As soon as Lord Carlisle had delivered his reply, he commanded Dr Gray, the able and indefatigable chairman of the Waterworks Committee, to kneel, and conferred upon him the honour of knighthood, amid loud applause. Sir John and Lady Gray were warmly congratulated by many of those present. The party then drove to Roundwood to partake of a déjeuner given by Mr. M'Cormick. It was served in a spacious marquee, 100 ft. long by [illegible] wide, which was occupied by three long ranges of tables. On an elevated dais were seated the Lord Lieutenant, Mr. M'Cormick, M.P., the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, [illegible] Richard Griffith, Sir George and Lady Hodson, Sir John and Lady Gray [illegible]. The company numbered about [illegible] ladies and gentlemen, to whom the mountain air had given a keen appetite. Mr. M'Cormick, the host, occupied the chair. The toasts were—'The Queen,' 'The Prince and Princess of Wales,' 'The Lord Lieutenant,' 'Mr M'Cormick,' 'The Lord Mayor and Corporation,' 'The Chairman of the Waterworks Committee,' 'Sir John Gray,' 'The Engineer, Mr Neville,' 'The Ladies,' 'The High Sheriff and Gentry of the County,' all of which were appropriately responded to, [illegible]. THE CORRENTINE CURRENCY.

This subject is at present before Congress, and as the fashion now-a-days is to reduce the currency of every name, nature, and description, the following scheme has been introduced:—

Art. 1. From the ordinary revenue of the nation 1000 gold ounces shall be set aside for the redemption of the paper money of Corrientes.

Art. 2. The said redemption, or amortization, shall extend only to the sum of $2,564,000, at the rate of $230 to the ounce.

Art. 3. If there should over and above this sum, remain a surplus of said paper money, it shall be regarded as legal, as suggests the 69th Art. of the National Constitution.

Art. 4. The Executive shall have power to regulate the amortization or redemption as best it thinks fit.

Dr. Alsina supported the measure, as he regarded the debt as a sacred one originated solely for the purpose of overthrowing the tyrant Rosas.

The Correntine Government, it appears, is most anxious to have the paper money redeemed. Sor. Torrent showed that the circulation of this currency was extremely limited, and the author totally abolished the better; and that as regards the objection urged respecting the loss entailed on bona fide holders in case of false money being in circulation, no such thing as forged notes is known to exist in Corrientes.

After some desultory remarks from some of the members, the bill was passed.

Many people regard it as a great blessing that paper currency has been limited to Corrientes and Buenos Ayres, but our legislators have got so expert on the topic now, that it is to be expected that every province in the republic has not paper money to be redeemed, so that our legislators could be constantly employed in such innocent diversion.

DARING ROBBERY.

On Sunday night a wholesale deposit warehouse of an English firm was broken into, and two boxes of valuable goods stolen. It appears that the thieves got over the azotea and effected an entrance from above. The deposit store is situated in Calle Balcarce, and as no person sleeps in the store the burglars had it all to themselves. The two boxes were found on the roof empty. As a matter of course the robbers have not been caught, nor any traces of them. Merchants would do well to have a storekeeper sleeping in their deposits, as otherwise they are liable, from the utter inefficiency of our police, to lose in one night just as much property as the robbers are able to walk off with.

We have not heard the value of the goods stolen in the present case, but believe it to be rather serious.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Montevideo, Aug. 11, 1863.

Dear 'Impartial'—No doubt you would like me to enter into a controversy with you in regard to the merits and demerits of Union or Secession. But really, now, I cannot do it. For the life of me I cannot argue with a man who will tell me, in honest good faith that 'Nero was not a republican.' I say—enough, I grant all your arguments; but do not, I beg of you, afflict the readers of the 'Standard' with such grammar and such logic again, and I will always remain very faithfully yours,

ON 'CHANGE.

August 18.

Ounces opened at 428 1/2, and made one leap to 427. At twelve o'clock they were selling at 429, and at half-past twelve reached as high as 430. At half-past one they receded to 426 1/2, and at two closed stiff at 427 1/2 buyers.

The most experienced brokers and ounce speculators were surprised at the sudden firmness of the market. To-day people asked if there was another revolution, or was Urquiza again coming. Nothing can prove more clearly the great undercurrent which is at work, than to-day's transactions. If we are to believe report, we should say that the stringency is caused by certain specie loans having been called in, and which necessitated some parties to go on the market and purchase. Others assert that the withdrawal of Romero's project is the immediate cause of the rise. We, however, believe, that the sudden firm tone of the market is attributable to far different causes. As we remarked a few days ago, if ounces kept declining so fast, it would be the interest of the lucky speculators to come forward and support the market. This we regard as the secret of to day's firmness. The bears begin to get alarmed, lest by their indiscretion they cause a crash, and consequently lose all their profits. Still, we are not prepared to contradict the on 'Change 'on dit,' and it is extremely probable that the bank is calling in its specie loans, as is asserted.

The time sales were heavy, and ounces for the end of the year fetched a higher price to-day than when their cash value was over 440. We account for this by the unsettled state of the market, which at times hurries parties into the most injudicious purchases. Sales for cash, 4417.

From Montevideo we learn of the arrival of the W D Sewall, with a valuable cargo of lumber, which it is thought will be retailed there, owing to the new tariff which has come into operation here. Money is very abundant in Montevideo. Business is excessively dull, owing to the lamentable revolution.

Considerable excitement prevailed on the Bolsa to-day, owing to Mr. Rom, the Secretary, having received three or four yards of native-manufactured calico from Santiago del Estero. Governor Taboada, being anxious to try and do something for his country, has sent this sample, which is pronounced by judges as of a most superior description. The raw cotton was grown in Santiago, and the calico was manufactured by hand; the Governor states that it can be sold at a profit at a lower price than the brought here from the European market. We regard this sample as most opportune. The cotton planting season is now setting in, and we hope Government will take care that Governor Taboada is well supplied with seed.

ANOTHER BANK PROJECT.

On the known globe there is no such a country for projects as Buenos Ayres: like mushrooms in the estancias they spring up unnoticed, but unluckily cannot be turned to such advantage. To recapitulate for our readers all the new projects at present under consideration would require a winding sheet like the Tribuna. We give up the task in despair, and only trust our friends to these few which are of vital interest to our readers. The latest novelty in the project line has been that of the Bank, which question revolving like a tee totum, has at last fallen with 284 marked upwards.

The subjugation of the Chaco, the annexation of the Banda Oriental, the extermination of Urquiza, are all matters of trifling importance compared with the regulation of the currency. This knotty subject, which up to the present has baffled the genius of man, is, as some visionaries think, happily about to be settled.

The Legislature by fixing the value of the gold ounce at 284, has tacitly admitted that the bank has sequestrated from our pockets the nett sum of 84.08 paper dollars for each doubloon. Anxious however to support an institution which enjoys the soubriquet of "defender of the institutions," we have purposely omitted to call public attention to this gigantic sweep.

Impatient for the adjustment of the currency question, we have preserved the greatest silence in order that the Romero regenerator might be the better able to work out his plausible reforms. We are startled however by the fact that the land auction project of Romero has been withdrawn, and an insidious attempt to joint stock bamboozle the public been attempted.

Lamentable indeed is our monetary condition, and frightful our financial degradation when the patching up of our banking system is left to the clerk of a minister, or the Juez de paz of a country town.

A project for the emission of 50 dollar bank shares has been laid before the camara as the panacea of all our paper dollar woes. This scheme bears the signature of Messrs. Varela, Romero, Moreno, Muniz, and Vivot. Destitute of every guard against Government intervention, bereft of every semblance of guarantee against ministerial influence, these gentlemen have the courage to come before the public with a project more characteristic of the Convalescencia than the forum.

We should refrain from calling public attention to such a monstrous moonshine project, but that we observe that it has succeeded in extinguishing a scheme which up to the present was the only safe one presented for the amelioration of our troubles.

That our readers may better judge of the monstrous absurdity of the present project, we translate it, but hope they will excuse us if in our honest indignation we bestow upon it its proper appellation—

Bamboozling Project

Art. 1. The Bank of the Province shall (as it cannot with any show of justice print more paper dollars) emit five millions of silver dollars in shares of the value of 50 patacones each.

Art. 2. (In order to induce people to buy these shares) These shares shall enjoy one per cent, per annum more interest than deposits, and shall be redeemed, by the lottery system, out of the profits of the Bank, and also the funds which shall henceforth be paid in for burning purposes (suspicious!)

Art. 3. On the 1st January each year the interest and instalments shall be paid (provided we have no revolutions).

Art. 4. The Bank will always advance paper dollars on its shares being hypothecated. Very kind indeed

Art. 5. The one-third of the Bank Directory shall be appointed by the (stop ad) shareholders (Quere—who appoints the remaining two thirds of the directory?) provided that the capital subscribed shall amount to one million. This shows a doubt as to how much of the stock will be subscribed for.

Art. 6. The amount realised from the sales of shares shall be destined (not for the redemption of the paper money but) for the increasing of the capital of the bank, for the preservation of the paper money.

Art 7 (The millenium). The redemption of the paper money shall take place gradually, and shall begin when the profits or capital of the bank amounts to 8 millions fuertes [i. e., A.D. 2863].

Art. 8. The new paper dollars of the bank, for the bank should change the present paper money, should always preserve the name of "pesos moneda corriente" expressing however always the condition that they shall be paid in gold [what kind?—tin probably, the most appropriate] to bearer on presentation.

Art. 9. When this Bank shall be possessed of a specie capital, equivalent to the paper currency (i. e., A.D. 2863) it shall redeem its new paper money, and [observe the absurdity] the bank shall cease to be a bank of emission; then, and not till then, shall such banks be free in this province, being always subject to the laws in such case made and provided.

Art. 10. Communicate this to the Governor. Signed,

Varela, Romero, Muniz, Moreno and Vivot.

AMENDMENT.

We however propose two amendments to this law in two articles as follows:—

Article 11. No government, minister, newspaper editor or country judge shall henceforth be permitted to interfere with the financial affairs of the country, and no emissions of paper dollars from this day forward, for any cause whatever be regarded else than forgeries, and as such shall be punished.

1st No torn or obliterated notes shall be passed.

2d The monthly burnings shall be religiously observed.

3d All fines paid into the Policia shall be handed over to the bank to be burned.

If these amendments be passed, we vote for the adoption of the Bamboozling project: if not we hope the members of the legislature will have the courage to throw it under the table.

REPUBLICAN SECRETS.

Self government is rather flattering to human vanity, and hence young nations, like young people, usually regard it as the perfection of felicity and wisdom combined. Yet the experience of time shows that a man can often govern others better than himself, and in the political world we see the anomaly of a State like France, which carries its arms triumphant over neighboring countries, present a sorry picture when endeavouring to realize republican independence. In truth, the people is a bad statesman, a tyrannical master, a corrupt voter, a capricious judge, and an insane corporation. Where every man has equal weight in the national councils, there must be an immense preponderance of folly, unless we suppose (an absurdity) that wise men are more numerous than blockheads—there must be wide-spread venality, unless patriots are the general rule, and speculators the exception—there must be universal ignorance, unless (every youth of 25 years, is either a philosopher or a student—there must be unbridled insolence, unless humility is inculcated by the Constitution—there must be the license of mobocracy unless the superior genius, ambition

But it is beside our task to assail institutions which at least aim at perfection, although the wisdom of 20 centuries has exploded the idea of their feasibility, in Europe. We live in a Republic, and must make the best of it.

Now the spirit of Republicanism is to give every citizen the greatest amount of Liberty, that his stomach can safely digest. Yet it is notorious in Buenos Ayres, and much more so in the Interior, that party signifies power, and it is as dangerous for a man of independent feelings to hold an opinion, as to have arms without a license, in time of civil war. Nay more, a youth, like Shakespeare's Romeo, enamored of the red cap goddess, must abjure his name, if his father were a Montague, and the Capulets sit in the Government House. It may require time to blend the streams of faction into the grand current of patriotic nationality; but surely half-an-hour or the stroke of a pen would suffice to abolish the Star-Chamber of our Policia, whose summary arrests and secret administration are a cancerous disease, eating away the very essence and vitality of civil freedom and self-government.

Again the sovereign people may be compared to a mercantile firm, whose manager is the President, with his subordinate clerks. How irresistibly ludicrous for the book-keeper to refuse shewing the accounts, either on the pretext of want of time, or that he wished, tender mortal, not to harrow our feelings. Yet here is the sovereign people of La Plata, living for months in blissful ignorance of the state of its Debit and Credit account, simply because Minister Satsfield has not posted up the books to public view. True, electors have not called on him, such is their entire faith in his integrity; but he was formerly in the habit of giving a monthly return, pro et contra, and we were at times amused by the regularity with which General Paunero drew on the Treasury, for money to support his legions, in hunting Indians or Chachos. The public purse has been, of late, freely opened, to satisfy the exigencies of commercial and industrial progress, and grumblers assorted that we were going beyond our means. On the contrary, we believe that every dollar expended in subsidies, means of transit, and guarantees for the introduction of foreign capital and colonists will yield one hundred fold.

Moreover we have now to pay larger revenues, and no one can complain of taxation, when the rents are laid out to advance the country, when neither a royal family nor costly executive absorbs the public money, in fine, when the people is assured that its clerks are managing the business for the good of the firm. Nevertheless we should, we repeat, like to see the book-keeper publish his accounts monthly, for if he invest so large an amount as 600,000 $ silver in putting up a receiving office, he may imitate the man who spent his fortune in buying purses, leaving himself, in the end, nothing to put in them. It is only, by looking over our National accounts at short intervals, that we shall learn how we stand, and as we pay willingly all demands, there can be no objection to let us know what it's for.

THE "WHITE" CLAIM.

Few of our readers know the history of this long-neglected obligation, which should have been esteemed among the sacred legacies of Independence, and has been suffered by ungrateful administrations to lie over, half-a-century, unacknowledged:

Mr. White was an American citizen resident in this city at the beginning of the present century. His wealth and position were only equalled by his patriotic desire to aid the country in casting off the shackles of Spanish domination, and he threw himself, heart and soul, into the struggle. In 1814, Montevideo was in the hands of the Spaniards, the safety of Buenos Ayres was menaced; the patriots, therefore, resolved to make a grand blow for the extermination of foreign power, and a combined attack by sea and land was projected.

The valiant Admiral Brown offered his services, but a fleet was indispensable, and the exchequer was so exhausted that no means could be found to equip even a small schooner. In this emergency Mr White fitted out a complete naval armament at his own expense, and the result, under our countryman's management, was the capture of Montevideo and defeat of the Spanish fleet. The thanks of the nation were equally shared by the Admiral and Mr. White, and the latter received in satisfaction of his outlay a mortgage on the Custom-house of Buenos Ayres.

The convulsions of civil war frustrated alike the honest intentions of the Government and the hopes of the patriotic American for reimbursement. Years rolled on, without a dollar being paid, and the once wealthy man found himself reduced to penury, with a large family growing up unprovided for. Expectation and anxiety preyed heavily on the poor man now stricken in years, who found nothing over 300,000 dollars silver, for his adopted country, and could not even like rigid Cincinnatus nobly retire to a small farm for his remaining support. The sponsor of Argentine independence died crazy, a fate which befel other distinguished foreign champions of the same cause.

Some 20 years or upwards after the creation of the White claim, Government ordered an inquiry as to its amount, and the high officials appointed, reported a sum approximately 130,000 $ silver arrears, including a moderate interest. But nothing further was done, Mr. White's children were inheritors of an empty claim, and the repeated efforts of successive American ministers only served to show the vanity of all expectations for a just arrangement, and the seeming resolve of Argentine statesmen to ignore their benefactors.

At length the United States accredited a representative to this court, who, either from personal abilities or owing to political circumstances, has gained great influence with our present enlightened administration. Mr. Kirk soon turned his attention to the just claims of the Atkins and White families, which he pressed on the Argentine Government with a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of a protector [illegible]

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The fete Napoleon [illegible] passed off rather quietly this year. [illegible] Frenchmen assembled at the French Legation at a dinner party given by the Minister [illegible] of this country were present, [illegible] [illegible] the height of [illegible], however, unworthy of so [illegible] power as that which M. Lefevre [illegible]. It is an extraordinary [illegible] [illegible] particularly [illegible] [illegible] of the European powers [illegible] in the selection of ministers and [illegible] to represent them in these countries. [illegible] of these gentlemen seem, by their conduct, to think that by snubbing the authorities of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] effectually the interests of their fellow countrymen; but [illegible] ignorance is only attempted in countries where the disparity of wealth, strength, and population is so great that a comparity of results is out of the question. [illegible] [illegible] and when [illegible] [illegible] was expressed [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] views in which we [illegible] [illegible] almost every [illegible] [illegible] foreigner [illegible].

Whilst talking of ministers, we may observe [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Mr. Kirk, the American Minister has [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a happy conclusion [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] silver dollars is the amount which the Argentine Government has agreed to pay in 6 p. c. bonds. Comparisons are always odious, but we must say that probably if the present Minister's predecessors had been as discreet and judicious as Mr. Kirk, [illegible] of Mr. White would have [illegible] long since paid.

The rain seems determined not to come. Notwithstanding that all [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] taken by [illegible] [illegible] the appearance of the weather [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] change, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and the [illegible] [illegible] in the north are beginning to complain [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] A [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Republic [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] some 16 tons [illegible]

We notice the arrival of several young men who have come out with the intention of investing their capitals in sheep; some half-dozen landed within the last week, whose aggregate capital exceed one millions of paper dollars. We welcome these strangers amongst us, but caution them against too hurried an investment; far better to place their money in bank and rough it a little in the camp than to buy a flock of sheep right off, without first having obtained a little insight into the business.

The German who was said to have been murdered in the calle is, we are happy to say alive, and with every prospect of recovery.

Lucia di Lammermoor is the opera advertised for to night; it is one of the most favourite operas in England, and we hope to see a full house.

In Gualeguaychu there was quite a row the other day. Some fellows who were leaving to join Flores commenced rioting. The Chief sent down orders to have the ringleaders arrested, but before the soldiers arrived the would-be regenerators had set off for Fray Bentos.

Dr. Gibourg's letter has been a regular silencer on the editors of the Nacional. Monday evening's edition was anxiously looked for, to see what the legal editors would say, but as no answer appeared, we suppose all Dr. Kea's assertions about calumny, falsehood, &c., must be regarded as the effervescence of an inexperienced co editor.

To morrow night there will be a concert for the benefit of the infant pianist, Ermenegildo Liguori, admission $50. The Operatic Company will lend their professional services, and the repertoire comprises some very pretty pieces.

The annual meeting of the British Library takes place to morrow evening. Please don't forget to attend.

Many of our subscribers, knowing our anxiety to accommodate our friends, believed at first that it was a reading room we were establishing for our camp friends, others that it was a shooting gallery for the purpose of keeping one's hand in, but they were slightly mistaken, not however in their estimate of our accommodating dispositions, but, in the object of the new edifice: we have conceived the idea that as cartes de visite are at present all the rage, the most convenient thing possible would be a photographic concern on the premises, so that all our subscribers can have their likenesses taken in the [illegible] [illegible]. IRELAND

Yesterday will be long remembered by the peasantry of the county of Wicklow. Since the old times, when the O'Byrnes and the O'Tooles were [illegible] into their mountain fastnesses [illegible] their incursions in the county of Dublin, which sometimes extended to the city walls, there has been no such invasion of their county by the citizens of Dublin. Nearly 100 vehicles of various kinds were seen stretching for a mile along the narrow road, now creeping slowly up a steep hill, now passing rapidly along the vale, through beautifully wooded glens, or on the naked upland, towards the village of Roundwood, the principal seat of the Dublin Waterworks. The occasion which called forth so many visitors to this wild region, was the turning of the River Vartry from its old bed to the new channel which is to conduct it to Dublin for the supply of the city with pure water. This ceremony was performed by the Lord Lieutenant. The party started by the Wicklow Railway, in a special train at 11 o'clock, and reached Bray in about half an hour. There carriages and jaunting-cars were waiting to convey them to the works, about 12 English miles further on. The people of Bray turned out to gaze at the novel spectacle, and loudly cheered Lord Carlisle as he passed in an open carriage, accompanied by the Lord Mayor of Dublin, Mr McCormick, M.P., the contractor of the Vartry Works; Mr Hatchell, his private secretary; Major [illegible], Captain Williams, Captain Campbell, Aides de Camp, the Hon James Butler, an...

... of the Diamonds, between the two Sugar Loaves, and on through the picturesque Glen of the Downs, to Newtownmountkennedy, where it turned sharply to the right and faced the mountains. Ascending Calla hill, glorious views of the sea and of the coast scenery were obtained. A few miles brought the party to the mouth of the tunnel, which extends under a hill for two and a half miles. This great work was inspected by Lord Carlisle. As the tunnel is made through the rock, no pipes will be required for the conveyance of the water. The procession then advanced up a steep ascent to the Calladry Moor, the catchment on which the vast reservoir is being constructed. It will cover an area of 409 acres, and will be capable of pouring into the metropolis 12,000,000 gallons daily. At length the River Vartry was reached. At this season the stream is manageable, and it was easy, by means of little floodgates, which had been all put in readiness for the ceremony, to divert it from the old rocky channel through which it had worn its way since the Green Isle was formed, to the new one which Mr Neville, the engineer of the works, had prepared for it. Nothing could be more appropriate or dramatic than the manner in which this was done by the Lord Lieutenant, amid the cheers of the multitude that thronged round him. Before this part of the ceremonial was performed, there was an address from the Corporation presented to his Excellency. It was read by Dr Gray, chairman of the Waterworks Committee. The Lord Lieutenant replied in the following terms—

"I have to thank the Waterworks Committee of the Municipal Council of the city of Dublin alike for a friendly address, a picturesque expedition, and a very interesting and imposing ceremony. I well remember the inauguration of this great undertaking, and I cordially join with you in rejoicing that it should have advanced thus far smoothly and prosperously on its progress towards completion [applause.] I almost feel that you invest me with a power to which neither my imagination nor my ambition ever soared, when you call upon me to divert the crystal waters from the course they have probably followed since those purple Wicklow hills emerged from the earth's crust, and to bid them flow in a new and virgin channel [applause.] I well know that this marvel has been achieved by high engineering genius and by the scarcely less necessary co-operation of hardy and honest industry (hear, hear.) I fervently echo your prayer that the results of this spirited enterprise may fully accomplish all the purposes which have inspired its conception and progress. If in a neighbouring valley the eye of genius could see in the social pleasures which were gathered round the meeting of the waters a magic more exquisite than their own, so here we consecrate the parting of the waters to a still higher mission—to promote the health, comfort, and civilisation of countless families [applause.] Ladies and gentlemen, I have a very few words to add on this occasion: I wish to give a practical proof of the value I attach to the undertaking by making a special recognition in the only way open to me of the indefatigable zeal, the ability, and the fitness of the chairman of the Waterworks Committee through the whole course of the undertaking."

The address was presented in front of a marquee. The sun shone brilliantly on the scene, which was enlivened by the presence of many ladies and the music of a fine band. As soon as Lord Carlisle had delivered his reply, he commanded Dr Gray, the able and indefatigable chairman of the Waterworks Committee, to kneel, and conferred upon him the honour of knighthood, amid loud applause. Sir John and Lady Gray were warmly congratulated by many of those present. The party then drove to Roundwood to partake of a dejeuner given by Mr McCormick. It was served in a spacious marquee, 100ft. long by [illegible] wide, which was occupied by three long ranges of tables. On an elevated dais were seated the Lord Lieutenant, Mr W. McCormick, M.P., the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, Sir Richard Griffith, Sir George and Lady Hodson, and Sir John and Lady Gray. The company numbered about 2[illegible] ladies and gentlemen, to whom the mountain air gave a keen appetite. Mr McCormick, the host, occupied the chair. The toasts were—"The Queen," "The Prince and Princess of Wales," "The Lord Lieutenant," "Mr McCormick," "The Lord Mayor and Corporation," "The Chairman of the Waterworks Committee, Sir John Gray," "The Engineer, Mr Neville," "The Ladies," "The High Sheriff and Gentry of the County," all of which were appropriately responded to, the last by [illegible]. The party [illegible] to Bray by the Rocky Valley, [illegible] arrived in Dublin by special train [illegible] an exceedingly pleasant [illegible]

THE CORRENTINE CURRENCY.

This subject is at present before Congress, and at the fashion now-a-days is to redeem the currency of every name, nature, and description, the following scheme has been introduced:—

Art. 1. From the ordinary revenue of the nation 1000 gold ounces shall be set aside for the redemption of the paper money of Corrientes.

Art. 2. The said redemption, or amortization, shall extend only to the sum of $1,844,069, at the rate of $230 to the ounce.

Art. 3. If there should over and above this sum, remain a surplus of said paper money, it shall be regarded as legal as respects the 69th Art. of the National Constitution.

Art. 4. The Executive shall have power to regulate the amortization or redemption as best it thinks fit.

Dr. Alsina supported the measure, as he regarded the debt as a sacred one originated solely for the purpose of overthrowing the tyrant Rosas.

The Correntine Government, it appears, is most anxious to have the paper money redeemed. Sor. Torrent showed that the circulation of this currency was extremely limited, and the sooner totally abolished the better; and that as regards the objection urged respecting the loss entailed on bona fide holders in case of false money being in circulation, no such thing as forged notes is known to exist in Corrientes.

After some desultory remarks from some of the members, the bill was passed.

Many people regard it as a great blessing that paper currency has been limited to Corrientes and Buenos Ayres, but our legislators have got so expert on the topic now, that it is to be regretted that every province in the republic has not paper money to be redeemed, so that our legislators could be constantly employed in such innocent diversion.

DARING ROBBERY.

On Sunday night a wholesale deposit warehouse of an English firm was broken into, and two boxes of valuable goods stolen. It appears that the thieves got over the azotea and effected an entrance from above. The deposit store is situated in Calle Balcarce, and as no person sleeps in the store the burglars had it all to themselves. The two boxes were found on the roof empty. As a matter of course the robbers have not been caught, nor any trace of them. Merchants would do well to have a storekeeper sleeping in their deposits, as otherwise they are liable, from the utter inefficiency of our police, to lose in one night just as much property as the robbers are able to walk off with.

We have not heard the value of the goods stolen in the present case, but believe it to be rather serious.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Montevideo, Aug. 11, 1863.

Dear 'Impartial'—No doubt you would like me to enter into a controversy with you in regard to the merits and demerits of Union or Secession. But really, now, I cannot do it. For the life of me I cannot argue with a man who will tell me, in honest good faith that 'Nero was not a republican.' I cry—enough, I grant all your arguments; but do not, I beg of you, afflict the readers of the 'Standard' with such grammar and such logic again, and I will always remain very faithfully yours,

LOCAL EVENTS.

FALSE REPORTS.—The Chief of Police of Paysandu has passed an edict prohibiting the circulation of false and alarming rumours. The first party fined under the new law was the agent of the 'Tribuna' in that town.

HEAD OFFICE.—We regret to say that our Head Office reports have been brought to a rather sudden termination, owing to a slight misunderstanding between our reporter and one of the policemen.

GREAT CHANCE.—A flock of [illegible] sheep in good condition, belonging to the estate of a deceased countryman, will be brought to the [illegible] in a few days, and sold without reserve. The auction, as will be seen by an advertisement in another column, will take place near the Guardia del Monte.

LAW SUIT.—The great law suit respecting valuable property in the partido of [illegible] is advertised for to-day. The question at issue now is [illegible] the Yelverton [illegible] the validity of a mixed marriage [illegible] has to be decided again. We believe the question has never been determined by [illegible]

ON 'CHANGE.

August 18.

Ounces opened at 423 1\|2, and made one leap to 427. At twelve o'clock they were selling at 429, and at half-past twelve reached as high as 430. At half-past one they receded to 426 1\|2, and at two closed stiff at 427 1\|2 buyers.

The most experienced brokers and ounce speculators were surprised at the sudden firmness of the market. To-day people asked if there was another revolution, or was Urquiza again coming. Nothing can prove more clearly the great undercurrent which is at work, than to-day's transactions. If we are to believe report, we should say that the stringency is caused by certain specie loans having been called in, and which necessitated some parties to go on the market and purchase. Others assert that the withdrawal of Romero's project is the immediate cause of the rise. We, however, believe, that the sudden firm tone of the market is attributable to far different causes. As we remarked a few days ago, if ounces kept declining so fast, it would be the interest of the lucky speculators to come forward and support the market. This we regard as the secret of to-day's firmness. The bears begin to get alarmed, lest by their indiscretion they cause a crash, and consequently lose all their profits. Still, we are not prepared to contradict the on 'Change 'on dit,' and it is extremely probable that the bank is calling in its specie loans, as is asserted.

The time sales were heavy, and ounces for the end of the year fetched a higher price to-day than when their cash value was over 440. We account for this by the unsettled state of the market, which at times hurries parties into the most injudicious purchases. Sales for cash, 4417.

From Montevideo we learn of the arrival of the W D Stowall, with a valuable cargo of lumber, which it is thought will be retained there, owing to the new tariff which has come into operation here. Money is very abundant in Montevideo. Business is excessively dull, owing to the lamentable revolution.

Considerable excitement prevailed on the Bolsa to-day, owing to Mr. Rom, the Secretary, having received three or four yards of native manufactured calico from Santiago del Estero. Governor Taboada, being anxious to try and do something for his country, has sent this sample, which is pronounced by judges as of a most superior description. The raw cotton was grown in Santiago, and the calico was manufactured by hand; the Governor states that it can be sold at a profit at a lower price than that brought here from the European markets. We regard this sample as most opportune. The cotton planting season is now setting in, and we hope Government will take care that Governor Taboada is well supplied with seed.
